

With the ColorPanel as the observable (Model), DisplayColors listens for changes to the OriginalColorPanel and ComplementaryColorPanel as an Observer through the hue, brightness, and saturation levels of the two color panels. When a change is detected, the update() method is called from the Observer, which updates the GUI to reflect the new colors of the two panels (View).